THIRTY-SECOND YEAR NO. 31

CEARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1909.

PRICE $1.00 A YEAR.

FIRST TRIAL PRIMARY LAW.

The Bronson primary election law will be given its first test on September 7 by the voters of all the political parties of this state, when municipal and township officers and members of boards of education will be up for nomination. Each candidate must have a petition signed by at least two per cent of the voters which is filed with the Board of Elections. Under the new system there is nothing to bar an independent ticket for the regular election in November. The primary on September 7 is for each party and will do away with repeating in primary elections, a common thing in cities.

While both of the leading political parties in Springfield will nominate candidates for mayor it is expected that the leaders of the dry movement will circulate a petition and have a full ticket for the November election under an independent head. It is known that the city gave a large majority to the wet in the recent local election and that the leaders of both parties will endeavor to nominate none other than one of a liberal view on law enforcement. The Anti-Saloon League will back the independent ticket and if the present primary law is unsatisfactory in selecting good men for office there may be some more radical legislation when the legislature meets next winter. It is evident that the selection of good men for law enforcement means much to local option success.

In some parts of the state there will be a bitter political fight for members of school board, particularly in Dayton, Cincinnati and Cleveland. The law enacted a few years ago whereby all names for boards of education were to be placed on the ticket without a political heading was termed as the taking of the schools out of politics. Now the primary law gives privilege for political parties to make their nominations and then the voters elect the members of the November election and the party must select for himself. The political bosses saw much in view for them in that women could not get to vote at the primaries and thus help select candidates. The Attorney-General rendered an opinion Friday that gives women the right to vote for school board in primaries as well as in the regular elections. With this opinion it means that neither party will gain anything by making such nominations and that the names might just as well go on the ticket as heretofore.

County Auditor Wm. Dodds will be candidate for mayor in Xenia and his petition is now being circulated. After the expiration of his term as auditor he will devote his time to his campaign. It is conceded that Wm. R. Brennan will be a candidate for the third term and warm time is expected in the county seat. Mayor Brennan was given a stiff fight two years ago and won by something like 80 votes.

The Xenia Herald, organ of Democracy in this county, in a double column article last week goes after Governor Harmon for not recognizing this county in the distribution of patronage. The article states that while the county is strongly Republican it would be good politics to reward the faithful for the excellent showing last fall. Clark county is mentioned as a strong Republican county and several good places have fallen to those who supported the Governor. The Herald speaks in earnestness and implies that unless something falls that is worthy of recognition little can be expected in the future. The Governor has certainly handled the patronage situation with diplomacy and satisfied the largest per cent of the party followers. Even with this record the Herald wants Greene County in the list of the successful.

Jesse Taylor left for Washington, D. C., last Saturday arriving there Sabbath morning. As usual Jesse found the correspondents for the Monday morning papers and gave an account of his arrival and his purpose. Jesse has had trouble about the postoffice appointment in Jamestown and all his protesting over the appointment of W. O. Custis for a second term has brought him nothing. Custis has been named for his second term by President Taft so what difference whether the appointment is confirmed or not. Custis still holds the fort and draws the salary, so Jesse might as well take things easy.

Louis Tindall Fever Stricken.

The friends of Mr. Louis Tindall of the Exchange Bank will regret to hear of his being down with typhoid fever at his home near Selma. Mr. Tindall had not been well for several days before going to his home last week. Typhoid fever soon developed and it is hoped that the case will prove a mild one. Dr. Bumgarner hopes to have the fever broken in a few days.

NOTICE.

I will be absent from my office from Monday, August 2nd until August 9th.
Dr. J. W. Dixon.

GOIN' CAMPIN'.

Early Monday morning a party of five campers will start from Cedarville on a trip down to Highland County, where they expect to spend a week or ten days camping on the Rocky Fork of Paint Creek about thirteen miles east of Hillsboro. Rocky Fork passes for about two miles previous to its junction with the main stream, through a deep gorge, in some places more than a hundred feet in depth forming a series of wild picturesque views. In the ravine are numerous caverns which are much visited and the surrounding country is an ideal camping ground. It is in the vicinity of these caves the boys hope to pitch their tent. They have everything in preparation, having a good supply of grub and other camp necessities and have constructed a canvas top on a one-horse wagon forming a roomy "overland skooner".

The campers are: Wallace Irvine, Cameron Ross, Buford McFarland, Fred Marshall and Clarke Nagler. The latter will be accompanied by his camera and expects to obtain a number of pictures of the camp and surrounding scenery.

A RECORD BREAKER.

Is Promise of Coming Ohio State Fair—Many Educational Novelties to be introduced—Exposition to be Open Day and Night—Superb Entertainment and Amusement Program.

A record breaker in every particular is the prediction for the coming Ohio State Fair and Industrial Exposition, to be held in Columbus, August 30, 31, September 1, 2 and 3. It will be replete with novel educational features, one of which—the domestic science department is attracting unusual attention. This school will be located in the auditorium of the handsome new women's building and will be under the direct supervision of Miss R. A. Wardall, of the Ohio State University. Miss Wardall has arranged a most attractive program, including practical demonstrations and daily lectures by experts.

Various state institutions and departments including the Experiment Station State University, Dairy and Food Commissioner's Department and the State Library, will occupy one entire structure with interesting displays. The building wherein these exhibits will be housed will also be equipped with a modern lecture room where scientists will discourse upon topics of vital importance to agricultural interests. The managers are planning other educational innovations equally as interesting as the above, which will be announced later.

Although entries in the competitive departments of the Exposition do not close until August 14th next the Secretary's mail is daily flooded with applications for entrance, thus assuring most magnificent displays in each of the seventeen departments. The amusement and entertainment to be provided will, far exceed that of former years, as an especially strong program will prevail each evening, including band concerts, free feature acts, Spillman's Stupendous shows and a brilliant pyrotechnic display. The Exposition will be of such grandeur and magnitude as to well deserve the liberal patronage which indications now forecast.

BLACK-ELDER NUPTIALS.

A very beautiful wedding was solemnized in Clifton, Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Elder, when their daughter Miss Lida D. Elder was united in marriage to Wendall M. Black, son of Rev. George D. Black, of Yellow Springs, at five o'clock. About eighty guests were present for the event. The home had been beautifully decorated in white and green, the color scheme throughout. The ring ceremony was used by the father of the groom, Rev. Black. The couple appeared unattended. After the ceremony a delectable wedding supper was served, six couples being at the bride's table.

The couple were driven to Yellow Springs where they took a train for their wedding tour, the destination being unknown.

Death of James Shepherd.

Mr. James Shepherd died Saturday evening at his home in Kokuk, Iowa, with blood poisoning. A telegram was received here Saturday notifying his sisters, Mrs. A. O. Bridgman and H. A. Townsley of his serious illness. They left that evening for Kokuk but did not arrive until after the brother's death. The funeral was held Tuesday. A wife and two children survive.

DEATH OF MRS. LAUGHEAD.

Mrs. Jane Laughead, aged 80, died Tuesday night at 9:15 at the home of her son, John Laughead on the Columbus pike. For a number of months she had been suffering with rheumatism.

The deceased was Jane Elder before her marriage to David Laughead in January 1887. Mr. Laughead died Sept. 25, 1895. The deceased was a member of the Second U. P. church in Xenia for many years.

One son John, at home, one step-daughter, Mrs. Alice Dorne, of Onyiahoga Falls, and two brothers and one sister of Palestine, Ill., survive.

The funeral services were held Thursday from the home at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Dr. Joseph Kyle.

County Fair Next Week.

Everybody is getting ready for the only county fair next week when all Greene County will turn out to see the various exhibits. Prizes to the amount of $5,000 are offered in the various departments. There will be two flights daily by airship, this one attraction alone will be the drawing card for thousands of people.

All departments have a full list of entries. The school exhibit will be worthy of a visit as will be the Wooster Agricultural Experiment exhibit.

SOUVENIR BOOK TO BE ISSUED.

In connection with the celebration of the organization of the Reformed Presbyterian congregation which is to take place August 27, 28, and 29, the committee in charge have in preparation a Souvenir Book to be ready for distribution during the celebration.

Perhaps the most interesting and notable feature of this book to all who are interested will be the history of the congregation from its beginning in 1804 down to the present, which is being prepared by Prof. F. A. Jurkat. This souvenir will also contain a likeness of the pastors of the congregation and a brief sketch of each; also pictures of the five church buildings in which they have worshipped during the century. There will be other views of local interest contained therein and the committee has word from W. D. Nisbet of the Chicago Evening Post that he has a special page in preparation for this book. These are a few of the principle features.

The committee realizes that outside of their own congregation there are many in the immediate vicinity of Cedarville who have been associated with the church since its early days.

They have placed a price of twenty-five cents per copy upon it. The edition is limited of course. And as most of them will be used in the congregation, any person desiring an extra copy should leave their order with Prof. F. A. Jurkat at the Exchange Bank as soon as possible.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all the stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical community. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature in doing the work. The proprietors have made him to be the positive power, that they offer not a cure, but a cure for any one that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

It is estimated that 60,000 people will attend the Clark County Fair at Springfield on Tuesday, August 10th when Dan Patch 1:55 and Minor Heir 1:59 1/2 will pace an exhibition mile. The meeting of the world's two most famous horses will prove one of the biggest drawing cards in this section of the state this year. The Clark County Fair Board has eclipsed all previous preparations for the annual fair and over $12,000 is off and in speed and class premiums.

From signs and inscriptions found on the sides of some of the separators, it is evident that the threshermen expect to enforce a new rule as to settlement of accounts. On one machine a notice is posted that unless there is immediate payment one-half cent per bushel will be added. The owner of another machine has the following posted: "Man is made of dust; dust settles. Are you a man?"

STATE FAIR OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

Night Entertainment to be Feature of Coming Exposition.
Mammoth Exhibit Buildings Will be Taxed to accommodate the Educational Exhibits.

Plans are rapidly maturing for the 29th annual Ohio State Fair and Industrial Exposition, to be held in Columbus, Aug. 30, 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3, next. The exhibition this year will be open day and night, with the most elaborate program in its history. The displays in the competitive departments promise to be more numerous and on a grander scale than heretofore, as the premiums have been liberally increased while classifications have been broadened in each of its seventeen distinct departments. The demand for exhibit space has been such as to insure the most complete exhibition in the state's history. The inauguration of night entertainment is an innovation that will delight the thousands of fair patrons. The grounds and buildings will be brilliantly illuminated, and that suitable entertainment be provided, the whole realm of the amusement world has been invaded. It consists of hand concerts, free feature acts, pyrotechnic displays and the stupendous Spellman Shows. On the day program is also added three hotly contested harness events. The purses are liberal and should attract famous steeplechasers.

In addition to the superb amusement features, the seventeen mammoth exhibit buildings will also be open for inspection during the evening hours, thus affording a good opportunity to reap the benefit of its educational teachings as well as to enjoy its innumerable entertainment features. So great has been the interest in the coming Exposition that the managers predict an unprecedented attendance.

Exasperating.
From the dark kitchen there emanated a series of thumps and angry exclamations. Jones was looking for the cat.

"Pa!" called the son from the stairway.
"Go to bed and let me alone!" blurted Jones. "I've just baked my cake."
"Pa!" insisted Tommy after a moment's silence.
"Well, what is it? Didn't I tell you to keep quiet?"
"I-I didn't hear your chins bark."
And the next moment Tommy was being pursued by an angry sire with a hard hairbrush.—Chicago News.

Nothing Doing.
"Say, I hear somebody in this crowd said I was a liar!" blustered the village bully, approaching a group of men he thought he knew.
"Where?" the guilty party?
"I guess maybe it was me," quietly rejoined a husky stranger, who measured fully six feet and looked to be stronger than an ox, as he pulled off his coat and proceeded to roll up his sleeves.
"Oh, that's all right," continued the bully as he hurriedly backed away. "Keep your clothes on. I didn't say I wasn't."—Chicago News.

LIGHTNING.

Some Facts About This Mysterious Force of Nature.

Lightning is still more or less a mystery. We can imitate it on a small scale in the laboratory, but its significant manifestations in the sky and its wonderful vagaries make the wisest savants shake their heads. We know, at any rate, that lightning is the electric discharge at high tension between masses oppositely electrified. Every little particle of moisture in the air carries a charge, and when the particles coalesce in a cloud their electricity collects on the surface until the tension becomes enormous. If two clouds are oppositely electrified they will bombard each other until equilibrium is established between them. If the opposition is between the surcharged cloud and an object on the ground a terrific bolt passing between the earth and the sky will relieve the electric strain without regard to the well being of any creature that stands in the way.

A lightning flash often darts for miles through the air. It begins with a discharge between two adjacent particles. The next particle receives the shock and transmits it to its nearest neighbor, and thus it rushes on, zigzagging along the line of least resistance until the unbalanced energies are restored to equality. The way of lightning is a crooked way when the path is long, because the distribution of the electric charges in the clouds is irregular. The positive seeks the negative and rushes to its embrace wherever it finds it.

The eye is not quick enough to unravel a lightning stroke, but photography can do it to a certain degree, and photographs prove that the path of the discharge is a waving line. No discharge occurs until the tension has reached the breaking point—i. e., the point where the resistance of the air can no longer restrain the force of the gathering charge.

What might be called the inner structure of a lightning stroke is a marvel. Professor Henry proved that every stroke is an alternating current, the oscillations occupying but a few millionths of a second, while the duration of the flash may be a considerable fraction of a second.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

Some Odd Words.

"Topsy turvy"—when things are in confusion, they are said to be topsy turvy, an expression derived from the way in which turf for fuel is placed to dry on its being cut.

The surface of the ground is patted off with the leath growing upon it and the leath is turned downward and left some days in that state that the earth may get dry before it is carried away. It means, therefore, really "top side turf way."

"Cockcomb" is a corruption of cock's comb, which is considered as an unnecessary part and is always cut off from game birds and only suffered to grow on those of the barnyard breed; hence cockcomb is a ridiculous fellow, who pays more attention to decoration of his person than to the improvement of his mind.

"Hurly burly" denotes confusion or tumult and is said to owe its origin to two neighboring families, Hurleigh and Burleigh, who filled their part of the country with contest of violence.

The Irreparable Loss.

"What has happened to me?" asked the patient when he had recovered from the effects of the ether.

"You were in a trolley car accident," said the nurse, "and it has been found necessary to amputate your right hand."

"He came back on the pillow, sobbing aloud."

"Cheer up," said the nurse, patting him on the head: "you'll soon learn to get along all right with your left hand."

"Oh, it wasn't the loss of the hand itself that I was thinking of," sighed the victim. "But on the forefinger was a string that my wife tied around it to remind me to get something for her this morning, and now I'll never be able to remember what it was."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What "He's a Brick" Means.

The common phrase "He's a brick" is first found in Plutarch. The expression implies any form of admiration. The Spartans, quick witted and noted for their repartee, were early trained in both schools. They were men of few words and fewer laws and embodied in short phrases their admiration, dislike or appreciation. Lycurgus was not only a man of few words, but quick action. On being asked, "Should Sparta be inclosed?" an invasion of the enemy being expected during the time of war, he replied, "A city is well fortified which has a wall of men instead of brick."

The saloon keepers in Springfield that signed an agreement to close their places last Saturday night or suffer prosecution have taken rough lumber and boarded the fronts of the buildings. A half dozen buildings in one row decorated in such a fashion presents a bad appearance for the city and Judge Miller of the police court says that the boards must come down.

An Old Enemy.

Persons who rise in the world are not always as frank about their former places in life as good sense and humor might lead them to be. Dean Hole in his book of reminiscences, "Now and Then," tells a little story of one whose humor did not desert him in time of prosperity. A footman who had begun life as a doctor's boy grew interested in the study of medicine and spent his leisure hours reading medical books. He came to the United States, worked hard as a student and as a physician for many years and attained a large practice. After some years of absence he returned to England. Seated one day at luncheon with those whom he had formerly served, he suddenly astonished the company by holding up the mustard pot and addressing it with, "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?"

Afterward he explained that the only reproach he had incurred from the lady who was then at the head of the table was evoked by the neglected condition of the mustard pot.

When the Woman Fainted.

This happened on the Lake Shore pier not long ago. A man rushed in from the car behind, evidently in great agitation, and said: "Has anybody in the car any whisky? A woman in the car behind has fainted."

Instantly dozens of flasks were produced. The man who had asked for it picked out the largest one, drew the cork and put the bottle to his lips. With a long, satisfied sigh, he handed it back and remarked: "That did me a lot of good. I needed it, for it always makes me feel queer to see a woman faint."

ROTHENBURG.

An Ancient City That is Still Stately and Fascinating.

For a thousand years Rothenburg has been a city. For more than 500 years it was a free city of the empire. It is not like those ancient towns which, through centuries of strife, preserved their entity through being luddled near the base of some great castle. It is not like those towns that were protected by powerful princes, for it has maintained itself by its own unaided sturdiness. If great barons came to Rothenburg they came to receive protection, not to give it, or else they came to be entertained with the lavish open handedness that made the city a place to which emperors themselves found pleasure in resorting.

By crusaders and pilgrims Rothenburg was held in affectionate regard, not only for its generous hospitality, but because, seen from the river, it bore a striking resemblance to Jerusalem. But there was order in the city, and it was not a city of an old, old time, but a city of the present. Houses there are an ancient stone, bearing upon it an ancient carving of a hand and a hatchet, with the ominous inscription, "He who quarrels in this house shall have his hand cut off."

Yet since those early days the town has been comparatively forgotten. Even yet it has not become a haunt of the tourist and the traveler, although each year a few Americans resort there, bringing back tales of this city that out-Nurnbergs Nurnberg. It is easily reached, being on a little branch line from the railway between Frankfurt and Munich.

It is a place where the sightseer cannot go wrong, for everywhere is fascination. There are both stateliness and beauty. There are towering houses with crisscrossed fronts.

There are deep dungeons under the Rathaus, reached by stairways dripping with moisture, into which not a ray of light can enter, and in one of these dungeons some five centuries ago the men of Rothenburg placed the burgomaster who, more than any other in the long burgomasterial line, gave to the city power and wealth and prosperity. But they charged him with conspiring with the emperor and not only gave him no light, but edged their animosity by deliberately giving him no food. It is in all a fiercely dramatic story, for friends who were still faithful tunneled to the cell and madly cut through its prodigious wall and reached the prisoner, but only to find him dead.

Nowadays they treat unpopular burgomasters with more consideration. Each burgomaster is chosen for three years, and at the end of that time he is either elected for life or gives place to a successor. But an election for life does not give unchecked power, for it is a simple matter with these townsfolk if they tire of a life chosen mayor, to make him "so crazy with vexation" as it was expressed to me, that he is glad to resign and accept the pension that they palliatively offer. Only recently they thus got rid of one.—Robert Shackleton in Harper's Magazine.
